

MARKUS HOFKO | ISLANDS: 'YOU AND ME – A SECOND AND A LIFETIME'

16 June - 11 July 2009

Markus Hofko Islands

Markus Hofko's islands are a series of sculptures showing miniature scenes of life. Isolated chunks of earth, which look like they have been ripped from the planet's crust, hang suspended in space. The random group of inhabitants left floating on this debris, do their best to survive in these limited environs. Hofko's Islands visualise the inevitable limitations of our own subjective, social, physical and imaginative worlds. These tiny microcosms position the viewer as a superior being but ultimately helpless observer. Islands 'You and Me – A Second and a Lifetime' is supported by the Goethe Institute.

- ▼ THE TEAM
- ▼ GLOBAL WARMING
- ▼ THE BIG IDEA
- ▼ WHAT THE...
- ▼ EXILE
- ▼ TREASURE
- ▼ THE OMEN
- ▼ PARASITE
- ▼ CONSPIRACY
- ▼ LIFE
- ▼ TRUTH

